Management's discussion of fund performance

The fund's Class F-3 shares gained 2.42% for the year ended June 30, 2024. That result compares with a 13.56% gain for the MSCI Emerging Markets IMI Index. For information on returns for additional periods, including the fund lifetime, please refer to capitalgroup.com/EMGF-F3.

What factors influenced results

Emerging markets advanced during the fund's fiscal year but rose less than other global economies as China's rate of economic growth remained a source of concern, the U.S. dollar gained strength and the U.S. Federal Reserve did not lower rates as expected. On an absolute basis, equity markets in India and Taiwan provided strong returns.

Growth in emerging economies was mixed for much of the fund's fiscal year. India led the way, boosted by rising infrastructure investment, while Southeast Asian countries benefited from stable demand for manufactured goods. China's economy was helped by rising exports but domestic spending was tepid due to a weak property market. And despite aggressive interest rate cuts, Brazil's economy struggled.

From a geographic perspective, equities based in China and Brazil weighed on returns, particularly in the health care and financials sectors. The fund's holdings in information technology, consumer staples, consumer discretionary and financials saw returns surpassing those of the overall portfolio.
