Management's discussion of fund performance

The fund's Class T shares gained 30.39% for the year ended August 31, 2024. That result compares with a 27.14% gain for the S&P 500 Index.

What factors influenced results

The U.S. economy continued to see growth during the fund's fiscal year, despite high interest rates. However, lower job creation numbers over the summer were seen as a sign of a possible interest rate cut by the U.S. Federal Reserve, thus giving investors hope that recession could be avoided. Overseas markets remained mixed during the period, though equity markets in the U.S. and elsewhere continued to see strong growth, albeit with bouts of volatility.

Holdings in most equity sectors produced positive returns for the fund, with shares of communication services, information technology, financials and utility companies particularly additive to results. While the bulk of the portfolio remains invested in U.S. equities, holdings of companies based in Taiwan, the Netherlands and Canada added to returns.

In terms of detractors, holdings in the energy sector saw negative returns during the period, while holdings in real estate and consumer staples companies saw positive returns that were below the portfolio's overall results.
