Management's discussion of fund performance

The fund's Class R-1 shares gained 16.00% for the year ended September 30, 2024. That result compares with a 15.73% gain for the Bloomberg U.S. Corporate High Yield 2% Issuer Capped Index. What factors influenced results

U.S. bond markets remained strong during the fund's fiscal year, most of which was spent anticipating a rate cut from the U.S. Federal Reserve that arrived only at the tail end of the period. Below-investment grade (BB/Ba and below) bonds delivered some of the strongest results within fixed income during this time.

Security selection within the portfolio was particularly additive during the period, with securities issued by electric utilities, technology companies and noncyclical consumer companies contributing strongly to returns when compared with the broader high yield index. The fund's lowest rated securities provided some of the highest returns.

Conversely, the fund's more defensive positioning (including bonds with higher credit ratings and, in some cases, recently upgraded investment grade securities), detracted from results relative to the broader high yield index given the overall solid performance of the high yield market.

Average annual total returns

	1 year	5 years	10 years
American High-Income Trust – Class R-1*	16.00%	5.00%	4.02%
Bloomberg U.S. Aggregate Index†	11.57%	0.33%	1.84%
Bloomberg U.S. Corporate High Yield 2% Issuer Capped Index†	15.73%	4.70%	5.04%

Effective July 24, 2024, the fund's primary benchmark changed from the Bloomberg U.S. Corporate High Yield 2% Issuer Capped Index (the "Previous Primary Benchmark") to the Bloomberg U.S. Aggregate Index, a broad-based index that represents the overall applicable securities market, as required by the SEC. The Previous Primary Benchmark provides a means to compare the fund's results to a benchmark that the investment adviser believes is more representative of the fund's investment universe. There is no change in the fund's investment strategies as a result of the benchmark change.
