Management's discussion of fund performance

The fund's Class R-3 shares gained 23.82% for the year ended October 31, 2024. That result compares with a 25.77% gain for the 70%/30% MSCI All Country World Index/Bloomberg U.S. Aggregate Index. What factors influenced results

Consistent growth and easing inflation over the past year allowed the U.S. Federal Reserve to lower interest rates in September 2024. This initially pushed U.S. Treasury yields down, only to climb in October as concerns resurfaced about the long-term impact of rising U.S. debt. Overseas, major developed economies began to stagnate towards the end of the period, with mixed results across Europe and the Asia-Pacific region.

Overall, each of the fund's sectors added positive returns to the portfolio, with information technology, financials, industrials and utilities particularly additive. From a country perspective, shares of companies based in Taiwan, the United States and Germany made stronger contributions to return.

Conversely, holdings in energy, materials and consumer discretionary stocks detracted slightly from the returns. Also, investments in Finland, Brazil and Italy posted negative overall returns. The fund's fixed income portfolio offered lower returns than equities, but aided in maintaining stability and providing income.
