American Funds U.S. Government Money Market Fund Annualized seven-day SEC yield as of March 31, 2024:	5/1/09 4.86%	9/30	4.68	1.61	1.00	0.68	0.53

For money market funds, the annualized seven-day SEC yield more accurately reflects the fund's current earnings than does the fund's return.

The fund may suspend 12b-1 payments under agreements between its principal underwriter and intermediaries and other entities that sell fund shares. To the extent such payments have been suspended for a certain share class, should payments subsequently commence, the fund's investment results would be lower and expenses would be higher for that share class. Refer to the prospectus for additional information.

The value of fixed-income securities may be affected by changing interest rates and changes in credit ratings of the securities.

[†] Class A shares were first offered on November 8, 2019. Class A share results prior to the date of first sale are hypothetical based on the results of the original share class of the fund, adjusted for typical estimated expenses. Visit capitalgroup.com for more information on specific expense adjustments and the actual dates of first sale.

[‡] Class A shares of the fund include seed money invested by the fund's investment adviser or its affiliates. Because 12b-1 fees are not paid on these investments, expenses are lower and results are higher than they would have been if the fees had been paid.

Bond ratings, which typically range from AAA/Aaa (highest) to D (lowest), are assigned by credit rating agencies such as Standard & Poor's, Moody's and/or Fitch, as an indication of an issuer's creditworthiness. If agency ratings differ, a security will be considered to have received the highest of those ratings, consistent with applicable investment policies. Securities in the Unrated category have not been rated by a rating agency; however, the investment adviser performs its own credit analysis and assigns comparable ratings that are used for compliance with applicable investment policies.

- American Funds Portfolio Series
- American Funds Insurance Series® (AFIS) – Portfolio Series
- American Funds Retirement Income Portfolio Series

Time-based goals

These funds pursue a goal at a fixed point in the future, such as college or retirement. As the target date nears, managers slowly and carefully replace growth funds with dividend-focused equity and fixed income funds to reduce volatility and help preserve assets:

- American Funds Target Date Retirement Series®
- American Funds College Target Date Series®

We also offer 19 objective-based model portfolios – 11 of which have the same strategic underlying fund allocations as the American Funds Portfolio Series and American Funds Retirement Income Portfolio Series. Find out more.

Although the target date retirement portfolios are managed for investors on a projected retirement date time frame, the allocation strategy does not guarantee that investors' retirement goals will be met. Investment professionals manage the portfolio, moving it from a more growth-oriented strategy to a more income-oriented focus as the target date gets closer. The retirement target date is the year that corresponds roughly to the year in which an investor is assumed to retire and begin taking withdrawals. Investment professionals continue to manage each portfolio for approximately 30 years after it reaches its target date. The target date for the college target date series is the year that corresponds roughly to the year in which the beneficiary is expected to begin taking withdrawals. Investment professionals gradually adjust the portfolio over time so that it becomes more preservation-oriented. The allocation strategy does not guarantee that investors' education savings goals will be met. Investors and their financial professionals should periodically evaluate their investment to determine whether it continues to meet their needs.

Allocations may not achieve investment objectives. The portfolios' risks are directly related to the risks of the underlying funds as described herein, in proportion to their allocations. Investing outside the United States involves risks, such as currency fluctuations, periods of illiquidity and price volatility, as more fully described in the prospectus. These risks may be heightened in connection with investments in developing countries. Small-company stocks entail additional risks, and they can fluctuate in price more than larger company stocks. Lower rated bonds are subject to greater fluctuations in value and risk of loss of income and principal than higher rated bonds. The return of principal for bond funds and for funds with significant underlying bond holdings is not guaranteed. Fund shares are subject to the same interest rate, inflation and credit risks associated with underlying bond holdings. While not directly correlated to changes in interest rates, the values of inflationlinked bonds generally fluctuate in response to changes in real interest rates and may experience greater losses than other debt securities with similar durations. Investments in mortgage-related securities involve additional risks, such as prepayment risk, as more fully described in the prospectus. Bond prices and a bond fund's share price will generally move in the opposite direction of interest rates. Shares of U.S. Government Securities Fund are not guaranteed by the U.S. government.

American Funds Strategic Bond Fund may engage in frequent and active trading of its portfolio securities, which may involve correspondingly greater costs, adversely affecting the fund's results. The use of derivatives involves a variety of risks, which may be different from, or greater than, the risks associated with investing in traditional securities, such as stocks and bonds. The value of fixed income securities may be affected by changing interest rates and changes in credit ratings of the securities.

For tax-exempt bond funds, income may be subject to state or local income taxes. Income may also be subject to the federal alternative minimum tax (except for The Tax-Exempt Bond Fund of America). Certain other income, as well as capital gain distributions, may be taxable. State-specific tax-exempt funds are more susceptible to factors adversely affecting issuers of their state's tax-exempt securities than a more widely diversified municipal bond fund.
